$5,083.79 Spent To Entertain Elliott

By WILLIAM THEIS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (INS)—Records of the Brewster committee disclosed today that John Meyer, publicity man for Howard Hughes, spent $5083.79 for the entertainment of Col. Elliott Roosevelt and his friends over a three-year period. Compilation of the "pick-up-the-check" expenditures of the 41-year-old public relations expert was introduced as he took the witness stand in the committee's probe of 40 million dollars' worth of airplane contracts awarded to Hughes.

Among the items listed, was that of $106 entertaining Elliott in a party of six at New York night clubs the day young Roosevelt drafted a report recommending that the government buy the Hughes plane. This was on Aug. 20, 1943.

RAPS DEFERMENTS

These revelations came as:—

1—Sen. Cain (R.) of Washington, precipitated a committee row as he formally demanded a Justice Department investigation of Meyer's draft deferment. Cain stated that Meyer, "on several occasions was unreasonably deferred" from the draft.

2—Meyer asserted he was invited twice to the White House during a four-year span of entertaining Col. Roosevelt and his friends.

3—The committee heard that Meyer laid out $169,000 in expenses on behalf of Hughes enterprises during the four-year period.

4—Meyer declared he introduced Elliott Roosevelt to Faye Emerson, then a movie actress whom he later married.

Chairman Ferguson (R.) of Michigan told Meyers the Roosevelt report said, in effect, that Hughes' plane was the only one he had found in a nation-wide tour which met the specifications he had laid down for photo-reconnaissance flying in Europe.

The committee heard testimony yesterday that Roosevelt's report upset previous unanimous rejection of the plane by Air Corps experts and resulted in the award of a $48,500,000 contract to Hughes for 100 planes.

Meyer denied he had talked to Roosevelt about the plane, or its prototype, the D-2, a plywood ship.

STOP-PUBLICITY FUND

One item in the committee document was "payment to Chick Farmer to stop publicity of Roosevelt in New York—$50."

The document revealed that Meyer's annual bills for entertaining Col. Roosevelt were: 1943, $2080.40; 1944, $2304.74; 1945, $698.65.

He told the subcommittee:

"It was no fault of Hughes or myself that Elliott Roosevelt was assigned to the mission, that was done at Washington or Wright Field."

Sen. Ferguson snapped:

"You claim now that you didn't ask to have Col. Roosevelt assigned."

Meyer: "Positively, it could have been any colonel."

PAID FOR ANAMIN

Meyer's expenses ranged from a small item of $8.40 for "phone call to War Department" on Aug. 28, 1943, to an overall $449.90 in 1944 dubbed "November entertainment by John W. Meyer, hotel bills, Waldorf Astoria, New York, rooms and miscellaneous, in exps. Col. Roosevelt party."

In January, 1945, it showed an item going back to Nov. 17, 1944, of $15 credited to "public steno for Elliott Roosevelt and Anne Boettiger."

There were dinners, drinks and "girls at Hotel (Later)" shown on the committee list.

The entertainment for young Roosevelt included this item:

"Inv. from Schwab's Pharmacy, mix, chocolate, gum, Anacin—$33.25."

Invoices from the George Solotaire Ticket Agency indicated that Meyer spent $201 in three evenings on theatrical entertainment for Elliott. It gave these theater listings:

"11-17—St. James, $75; 11-18—48th Street, $66; 11-20—Shubert, $60."

There were dinners at the Mocambo Club, Romanoff's for "cocktails and champagne," and "presents for four girls—$200' folowing an $84 "party" at the Copacabana Club.

An Aug. 25, 1943, item on the Roosevelt entertainment list read this way:

"Entertained by John Meyer
"(Faye Emerson) $7.50
"Nylon hose for present 132.00
"Cash to travel home 20.00"

Meyer testified about taking the photo-plane mission to dinner and through the Hollywood movie studio. He explained:

"Everybody that came to Hollywood wanted to go through a studio. The mission was no exception."

Ferguson introduced a receipted bill from Hughes' aircraft files showing payment of a $32 hotel charge incurred by Roosevelt during his plane-seeking mission.

ON U. S. MISSION

Ferguson had Meyer look at the photostatic exhibit and asked:

"What is it?"

Meyer: "A hotel bill for Elliott Roosevelt. But it still doesn't show that I paid it."

Ferguson: "I'm not saying

Meyer Honest in Accounts To Hughes, He Tells Probe

By CHARLES FINSTON

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2—Balding, roly-poly Johnny Meyer, 41, fumbled only one question in the first round of his bout with a Senate war frauds committee investigating $40,000,000 worth of taxpayer's cash spent by Howard Hughes on war-plane experiments.

The question that stumped Meyer, party-throwing public relations man for Hughes, was:

"When did you first meet Elliott Roosevelt?"

Sen. Ferguson (R.) of Michigan hurled the sizzler at Meyer. After a moment's hesitation, Meyer shot back:

"Maybe you can tell me. I made a statement to you on that some weeks ago. I can't recall offhand. Can you refresh my memory?"

Elliott Roosevelt's name held the spotlight in the day-long question and answer session involving two top Air Force generals who testified that the late President's son back in 1943 "pressured" through a $22,000,000 contract for Hughes to make 100 wooden photo-reconnaisance planes after highly-placed Air Force technicians vetoed the project.

The Senate investigation thus for has failed to disclose any fraud or corruption on the part of Howard Hughes in obtaining airplane manufacturing contracts.

Senator Pepper (D.) of Florida said the most that can be charged are "errors of judgment." Ferguson, however, charged "waste" of taxpayers' money in the Hughes' ventures.

Meyer, however, resumed the stand today prepared to tell the investigators that he first met Elliott in August, 1943, when young Roosevelt, then an Air Force colonel, made a 30-day tour of air factories in a search for a fast photo plane for service in Europe.

Meyer previously had conceded he may have jotted down "some wrong dates and names" in numerous expense vouchers involving entertainment for New Deal notables, Army and Navy officers and $200 party girls.'

But he was adamant in his claims that none of his expense figures were "padded."

Under interrogation by Sen. Ferguson, the colloquy went as follows:

Q—Where had you been before appearing before this committee? A—At Cannes, in southern France.

Q—What were you doing there? A—On an errand for Hughes Aircraft Co.; on some business for Mr. Hughes.

Q—How long have you known Howard Hughes? A—About 10 or 11 years.

Q—When did you start working for Mr. Hughes? A: I went to work for him on Dec. 1, 1941.

Q—What were you hired to do? A—I went to work at Hughes Productions a movie company.

Q—How long did you work there? A: For a week—until Pearl Harbor. About two or three weeks later I was put on the payroll of the Hughes Aircraft Co.

NEBULOUS DUTIES

Q—How old are you? A—I I was 41 on July 18.

Q—What were your duties at the aircraft company? A—I was assistant to Mr. Hughes, until July or August of 1942, then I was made public relations director.

Q—What did you do as public relations director? A—That's a nebulous sort of job. I did a lot of things, whatever Mr. Hughes asked me to do.

Q—Did you entertain any Army or Navy officers? A—Yes, those are things Mr. Hughes wouldn't have time to do.

Q—And public officials, too? A—Yes.

Q—You talked to Mr. Hughes about the entertaining you did? A—Definitely.

Q—Did he give you any instructions? A: He gave me discretion to entertain them in any way I saw fit.

Q—Did Mr. Hughes instruct you to keep a record of names, who and where you did this entertaining? A—Yes, and I followed his instructions to the letter.

Q—Did you ever bill to the Hughes Aircraft Co. money you spent that was later repaid you and that you kept? A—Positively never. I was 100 per cent genuine on this. On no occasion have people repaid me.

Q—Did you pad bills and collect the difference from the company? A—I never padded any bills and collected the difference. I should have, but didn't.

Q—Why do you say you should have? A—Because of the low salray I get for the work I do—24 hours a day for $10,000 a year.

Q—Do you get any other salaries or income from other companies? A—Yes, I get expense checks of $500 a month from TWA as a public relations man.

Q—Do you pad your expense accounts with TWA? A—No, I'm very honest, believe me.

GOT CHECK, ALWAYS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (INS)—Johnny ("Have-One-on-Hughes") Meyer testified today the war was just one night club check after another—all coming his way for payment.

"I never saw anyone else pick one up in the entire war," he soberly told the war investigating committee.

It brought down the house.

Meyer also said he had lunch at the "21" Club on Sept. 3, 1943, and his expense account showed "a loan—thank God!—$6."

Publicity man Meyer added:

"Hughes will die when he finds out I'm referring to the Bible, too."

His reference apparently was to the reply of Sen. Brewster (R.) of Maine, who referred newsmen to chapter six of the book of Nehemiah in his first answer to Hughes' charge against him.

7 Warplanes Missing, Hint Foreign Plot

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP)—Government officials said today a widespread search is on for seven fast former Army combat planes reported to be headed for a foreign country after an unauthorized takeoff from a Florida field.

Edson J. Shambart, deputy commissioner of the Bureau of Customs, confirmed reports from Florida that an "alert" was ordered to prevent the planes from leaving this country, if they have not done so already.

They are two fast-flying P-38s, and five P-51. War Department officials said some of these planes, used by American fliers in the war, have been sold as surplus and may be in the hands of civilians.

"There are plenty of young fellows in this country who know how to fly these ships," one officer said.

AIRPORT ON LOOKOUT

Officials here would neither confirm or deny that the planes have actually taken to the air. But at Tampa, Fla., A. T. Brantley, deputy collector of customs, said he had asked all Florida airports to be on the lookout.

A Civilian Aeronautics Administration communicator at Knoxville, Tenn., said a message from his Atlanta office reported the planes were missing. This information came from the Florida highway patrol.

The patrol renewed its search begun late yesterday of deserted Army air fields, dotted about the State, for signs of plane departures or preparations for arrivals. Patrolmen reported their search so far was fruitless.

CARIBBEAN FERMENT

Officials declined to express an opinion on the destination of the fast little fleet but one, declining the use of his name, observed:

"You know there has been some trouble in the Caribbean."

A dispatch from Port-au-Prince today said Haitians returning from the Dominican Republic were quoted by Port-au-Prince newspapers as explaining they left because of apprehension over heavy troop movements.

Dominican Ambassador Julio Ortega Frier said here last Saturday that an army of 3000 "Communist revolutionaries" from Cuba, Guatemala, Venezuela and Puerto Rico was mobilized in Cuba for an invasion. But Venezuelan, Cuban and Guatemalan officials have denied any knowledge of such an army.

An army spokesman said the combat planes have a range around 1200 miles if equipped with spare gasoline tanks.

Customs officials said they were asked by "other government departments" to intercept the planes and prevent them from leaving the country without permission. It is illegal to remove military equipment without a license, he added. This applies as well to war surplus sales.

This official said "this is a delicate situation" and he couldn't disclose what other departments were interested.

Drunk Driver Kills Girl, Hurts 9 in Norton

ATTLEBORO, Aug. 2 — A drunken driver who plowed into the rear of another car parked by the roadside in nearby Norton today caused the instant death of a 17-year-old Taunton girl and injuries to nine other persons, including five members of her family and her fiance.

Marjorie Corriea of Oak st., Taunton, was crushed between the two cars as she held a flashlight to guide a garage mechanic who was changing a blown-out tire.

Wilfred Laplante, 30, of Foxboro, driver of the death car, was arraigned later in district court where he pleaded not guilty to manslaughter and was held in $5000 for the September session of the grand jury by Judge Ralph C. Estes.

Laplante pleaded guilty, however, to drunkenness, driving while drunk and driving to endanger. He was fined a total of $115 on those charges and later remanded to Bristol County jail in New Bedford.

Injured and brought to the Sturdy Hospital here for treatment were Mrs. Susan Corriea, 37, same address, mother of the girl victim, and four more of her children: Dorothy C., 14; Anthony, 8; Esther, 6, and John, J., 4.

At the hospital, doctors said Dorothy suffered a fractured skull and her name had been placed on the danger list.

Less seriously hurt were Raymond Corriea, 16, of Cooper st., Taunton, no relative of the family but a passenger in the Corriea car; Constantino Defeo, 19, of Federal st., Providence, R. I., fiance of the dead girl; Langdon Curry, 37, of Hanover st., Fall River, the mechanic who was summoned from a Mansfield garage, and Laplante.

Experts Seek Link Between Note, Missing N. H. Heiress

HOLDERNESS, N. H., Aug. 2—Handwriting experts of the State Police studied a note found in the Straw summer cottage tod ay to determine if it was written by 20-year-old Anne Straw shortly before she vanished late at night last July 21.

Specimens of Anne's handwriting are being compared with the penmanship in the note to "Lee Dearest." Police said there is a possibility it could have been written by any of the relatives, guests or servants who came to the luxurious lodge while it was occupied by the Straw family from June 16 to the end of July.

The girl's foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Ellis Straw, are awaiting developments in the 12-day search at their winter home in Manchester, N. H.

Their hopes that the Smith College senior will be found alive were greatly bolstered by the statement of expert diver, Fred Wallace of Somerville, that in his opinion the girl's body is not in Little Squam lake.

The note to "Lee Dearest" held special significance for police in that it mentioned a boat. Reports have persisted during the search that Anne fled in the company of a person who met her in a boat at a rendezvous on the lake shore near her home.

This theory gained credence when the girl's flashlight was found on a rocky point and searchers said it could have been used to guide a boat to the shore.

The writer of the note to "Lee" said, "Have found out about the boat—will explain all details when I see you. Please make it soon."

Police were told that Anne telephoned a boat renting agency for information on hiring a boat on the afternoon before she disappeared.

Jew Found Slain Near Tel Aviv, British Blamed

JERUSALEM, Aug. 2 (AP)—An unidentified Jew was found slain today on a roadside near Petah Tiqva east of Tel Aviv. Authorities expressed belief he was one of two Jews reported abducted by English-speaking men in army uniforms south of Tel Aviv about two weeks ago.

Edward Curtis of the Associated Press reported from Tel Aviv a taxicab driver told him he found the body at 10 a. m. and estimated that the Jew had been dead 12 hours. Two Arabs near the scene said, Curtis reported, that they had seen the body hurled from a passing truck a short time earlier.

TEL AVIV NORMAL

Curtis said the all-Jewish metropolis of Tel Aviv was "just about back to normal today" after a night and day of violence apparently touched off by discovery north of there Thursday of two British sergeants who had been hanged by Irgun Zvai Leumi, Jewish underground group.

"It's the usual sn hat (Saturday holiday) and the beaches are full of people who don't seem concerned or even aware of the tension in the town," Curtis said.

Five Jews were killed and 16 hurt Thursday night and 33 others wounded yesterday in Tel Aviv. Most of the casualties resulted from the gunfire of British troops and police angered at the killing of the sergeants.

No Britishers were reported hurt, although Jews burned two military vehicles and stoned the post office and income tax office.

Anti-British Slogan Found in U. S. Cities

NEW YORK, Aug. 2 (AP)—Anti-British slogans were found last night painted on buildings housing British consulates in five major cities throughout the country.

Phrases such as "British Following Nazis," "British Ape Nazis" and "Exodus 1947," the name of the Jewish refugee ship seized en route to Palestine, appeared on consular buildings in New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Chicago and Los Angeles.

4500 Refugees Wait Fate in France

PORT-DE-BOUC, France, Aug. 2 (AP)—A decision was expected today on the fate of some 4500 Jewish refugees staging a sitdown aboard three British vessels off this port, where they were brought Tuesday after their failure to enter Palestine without immigration visas.

A British spokesman said the refugees—only 10 of whom have left the ships so far—might be sent to Malta, Tobruk or some other area under British control.

DETROIT, Aug. 2 (AP)—Union negotiators announced after a brief session with Ford Motor Co. officials today they would recommend a strike Tuesday for 107,000 production workers.

The CIO United Auto Workers' executive board was scheduled to act on the recommendation later in the day.

Richard T. Leonard, UAW-CIO vice-president and national Ford director, announced the union negotiators' decision and reported no progress toward a settlement of a pension plan and union liability dispute.

A union spokesman earlier said a walkout in some 40 Ford plants across the nation had been tentatively set for some time Tuesday.

Caddie Struck By Ball, Sent To Hospital

Carl Olson, 14, of Perkins ave., Hyde Park, was struck on the head by a golf ball while working as a caddie today at the George Wright Municipal golf course and was taken to City Hospital.

At the time of his injury, the boy was given his caddie fee and told to go home and be examined by his family doctor.

Instead, he returned to the golf course and said he was ready to go to work.

However, Joseph Lee, acting chairman of the park commission, who ordered an investigation as soon as he learned of the incident, arranged instead to have him taken to City Hospital in a cruising car for X-ray examination.

In ordering the investigation, Lee recalled that last summer a caddie who suffered a similar injury died a few hours after he had been paid off and sent home.

"This merits an investigation," Lee said. "Something is wrong and I am going to find out what it is. I served notice on those in authority at the golf course that they must take every possible precaution to protect the caddies when I took over this office three weeks ago."

Lee said preliminary investigation indicated the Olson boy apparently had been struck by a wild shot from another fairway.

Disabled Vets Here Act on Housing, HCL

The housing shortage and increased living costs were predominant subjects today as the State Department, Disabled American Veterans, opened its 26th annual convention at Hotel Bradford.

The convention adopted a resolution criticising the Federal Housing Administration for evicting veterans from housing projects where their salaries were higher than consistent with the rental ceilings established in the projects. The resolution declared they should be permitted to remain until the shortage ended.

Another resolution endorsed the Taft-Ellender-Wagner housing bill, which will be taken up again at the next session of Congress.

Still another resolution declared displaced persons should not be permitted entry to this country from Europe until the housing shortage ended.

Citing the increased cost of living, another resolution favored boosting compensation paid to disabled veterans. In this connection, Harold Snell, national DAV service officer, told the convention that $30,000,000 was wasted annually by the Veterans Administration.

The waste, he said, came through establishment of branch offices whose work conflicted with and overlapped the work of regional offices. The huge sum wasted, he said, could be used to increase compensation.

The convention also adopted resolutions condemning State Tax Comr. Henry F. Long for his ruling that women veterans were not entitled to the $2000 real estate tax exemption given to disabled veterans.

A resolution from the Jewish War Veterans, requesting the convention to appeal to the government to condemn British policy in Palestine, was tabled.

About 150 delegates were guests of temporary Mayor John B. Hynes at a civic luncheon today.

Tomorrow National Com. Lloyd F. Oleson will address the convention.

During the afternoon session of the convention, Paul Bowser, president of the Bay State Harness Racing and Breeding Ass'n, Inc., promoters of a new track at Foxboro, presented the State Department with a gift of stock for the establishment of a hospital trust fund.

In addition he also presented the department with a gift of stock in the Norfolk County Concessions, Inc., a subsidiary of the track.

Doctor Mysteriously Slain From Ambush

PORTSMOUTH, O., Aug. 2 (AP)—A prominent 45-year-old Portsmouth physician was slain from ambush last night as he approached the rear of his home and police admitted today no logical motive for the killing.

Dr. George Obrist, shot down by a .22 caliber bullet, was sprawled at the foot of the porch steps was found by his 18-year-old son. The physician's wife, Corinne, and a 16-year-old daughter, Joan, slept undisturbed within the house.

Police searched the city's roster of physicians, striving to determine if the presumably quiet professional life of the 45-year-old physician held the key.

Robbery was not the motive, because Dr. Obrist was carrying $1500 in cash which was undisturbed.

Dr. Obrist had practiced here for 19 years. He was married in 1928 to a nurse he met during his internship. They have two high-school-age children.

No breath of irregularity has ever touched the professional or private life of Dr. Obrist, investigators emphasized.

Police said the mysterious assailant apparently knew the doctor often returned at midnight, or later, from calls. The physician had the reputation of never turning down a call, no matter what the hour.

Police ruled out the stray bullet theory, pointing to the lateness of the hour and declaring persons shooting in nocturnal target practice or at night-flying birds would probably fire more than once.

Man Confesses Attack-Slaying Of 5-Yr.-Old Girl

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 2 (AP)—A slight, balding steelworker was imprisoned here today as authorities checked into what Dist. Atty. Artemas C. Leslie said was a signed confession to the rape-killing of 5-year-old Carol Ann Thompson.

John Henry Fay, 33-year-old Marcus Hook steelworker, was quoted as telling in a soft calm voice how he lured the little girl to a country road near Norristown last May 10 and raped her, was found in a near-by well several hours later.

Fay's alleged confession told of World War II, adding suffered a head wound. He had been drinking at the time of the Carol Ann killing.

Reporters asked Fay what motivated the actions to which he had confessed.

"I don't know—I wish I did. I just got the urge, I guess," Fay replied.

that the little girl screamed and cried and he placed his hand over her mouth.

"I guess I held my hand there too long," Fay was quoted.

No charges have been filed against Fay in the Carol Ann case. But he is being held on charges of assaulting a five-year-old girl several days ago at nearby McKeesport.

Carol Ann was playing with her brother William, 6, when a black car stopped near there. The driver gave the little boy a downhill push on a wagon, then enticed Carol Ann into his car. Her body

Confession Clears South End Suspect

Roxbury Crossing police said today that the Pittsburgh announcement of the arrest and confession of John Henry Fay eliminated a 29-year-old former South End man who had been picked up here for questioning in connection with the slaying of Carol Ann Thompson.

The former Boston resident was picked up for questioning July 20 on his return here from Pennsylvania where he said he had been living in a camp near the scene of the child's murder. He was arrested after his attractive former wife had "tipped off" authorities that he was back home and was held on a non-support complaint. He is now in jail here awaiting trial.

Pennsylvania detectives came here to question the man after he told Boston police conflicting stories about his whereabouts on the day of the murder. Boston police said they had no warrant for him, but had picked him up for questioning at the request of Pennsylvania police.

ETHEL WHITTREDGE, 18, OF READING
State Police Join Hunt for Girl Missing a Week

Missing Girl Had OK to Wed

Ethel Whittredge, 18-year-old brunette, of Mt. Vernon st., Reading, who vanished from her home last Saturday with a boarder, a Florida man of 23, had asked permission to marry him and had been given consent, her father, Leonard C. Whittredge, revealed today.

The mystery surrounding their disappearance was all the more bewildering to him for that reason, he said.

Whittredge also disclosed his wife and mother, both of whom were under medical care before the flight of the girl and the roomer, has suffered relapses which left his household in a grief-shattered state.

The father himself is a victim of infantile paralysis, compelled to use crutches even in moving about the house.

Meanwhile, State Police, joining the police of Reading and adjacent towns in the search, have launched an investigation extending as far south as Jacksonville, the Florida man's home.

Whittredge's bewilderment arose in part from the fact that he had been kind to the missing man.

"My daughter met him while returning from a trip to Tennessee," he said. "Seven weeks ago her came here. He had no money and was looking for a job. We gave him a home. Later he got a job at the Boston Stove Foundry Co. here."

His daughter, a graduate of Reading high school only a year ago, came to him recently and said they were in love, Whittredge related.

"We gave our consent," he said, "and they planned to be married in September. Then they said they might have the wedding sooner.

"Ethel was home Friday night and so was he," the father went on. "Saturday morning we found them gone, no note or anything. Ethel had only a few dollars."

It was believed the boarder had little money too, for when police went to the foundry company to check on him he was trying to pick up his pay. He fled at sight of the police car, escaping through the marshy tract near Willow rd.

One of the inexplicable aspects of the case to the father was that his attractive daughter took only a few informal clothes—a pair of gray slacks, a pastel play dress of mixed colors, a brown check suit coat and little else.

The missing girl is five feet six, weighs 135 pounds and has dark brown hair as well as brown eyes.

Textile Strikers Say Pay Boost Not Issue

With most of the Fall River textile mills closed for the day and the rest on a Saturday half-day schedule, the strike of 1200 members of three independent craft unions, which threatens to idle 13,000 other mill workers, was expected to remain unchanged through the week-end.

Police guards were being maintained outside the mills, however, despite the absence of picket lines. Union spokesmen declared the strike was 100 per cent effective without picketing and said picket lines would not be established unless mill officials imported help to try and break the strike.

Charles P. Mullen, secretary-treasurer of the loom fixers' union, one of the three striking independent unions, today denied the claim of the manufacturers that the dispute was over the question of wages.

The skilled workers in the craft unions, upon whose repair and maintenance of machinery the work of 13,000 other employes depends, charge that the mill owners had negotiated with the CIO Textile Workers and then offered the skilled craft unions the same terms on a take it or leave it basis.

WATCH OUT, LADY!!

BELLEVILLE, Ill., Aug. 2 (AP)—When Mrs. Harol Metzger grabbed for what she thought was the garden hose in her basement, it started to uncoil and grab right back at her.

She ran screaming from the basement. Neighbors called police. Patrolmen with clubs subdued the "hose"—a three-foot black snake.

Delay Released In Mental Test

John L. Delay, former American Legion state commander and an East Cambridge district court probation officer, was released as sane today from the Metropolitan State Hospital, which he entered voluntarily several days ago.

After his release he appeared in East Cambridge Court, where his wife, Mrs. Margaret Delay, of Arlington, has brought an assault and battery charge against him. Judge Robert Walcott continued the case to Tuesday and reduced the $5000 bail to personal recognizance.

GANDHI LISTENS IN

SRINAGAR, India, Aug. 2 (AP) — Mohandas K. Gandhi, Hindu spiritual leader, was in this Kashmir capital today, and members of his entourage quoted him as saying he had come "to listen to people—not on any political mission."

Revived by Undertaker, 2-Lb Baby 'Dies' 2d Time

BECKLEY, W. Va., Aug. 2 (AP)—A two-pound baby boy, who had gasped his way back to life on a funeral parlor table only 12 hours before, died in a hospital incubator early today after being born prematurely Thursday.

Given up for dead after nurses reported to doctors that he had ceased breathing, Douglas Bryant, an embalmer was preparing the body for burial when the infant gasped and began to cry. The embalmer and an assistant continued to apply chest pressure and packed hot cotton pads around the little body to restore blood circulation.

They then hurried him to the hospital, where he was placed in an incubator. Doctors found the tiny heart beating at the rate of 60 to 70 pulsations a minute, instead of the normal 140.

Dr. Fred Richmond, explaining that only rarely do babies born at six-months survive, held out little hope.

The baby died at 12:05 a. m. and was taken to the funeral home a second time.

16 AT-6's In Air Salute Over 2 States

Greater Boston, Massachusetts and Rhode Island were treated to an encore today of the aerial display put on by regular and reserve pilots celebrating the 40th birthday of the Army Air Force.

Focal point of the Boston celebration again was Bedford Airport, while additional observances were held at Logan Airport by the Massachusetts Air National Guard.

Crowds began to fill Bedford Airport early as the day's program opened with the takeoff of a flight of 16 AT-6 planes for an aerial salute to the principal cities of Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

The flight was commanded by Lt. Col. Lawrence J. Haywood of Burlington, executive officer of the 310th Reserve Bombardment Group. Each pilot was a resident of one of the cities over which the flight was made.

Taking off from Bedford the planes headed over Boston and southward to Brockton. From there the route went over Massachusetts Bay to Hyannis, to New Bedford, Fall River, to Providence, to Woonsocket, to Worcester, to Fitchburg, to Leominster, to Lowell, to Lawrence, to Haverhill, to Beverly, to Salem and back to Bedford.

The afternoon program included a spectacular aerial show, climaxed by a mock paratroop invasion of the airport by members of the famed 82d Airdrome Division.

Westover Field will celebrate the air force birthday tomorrow with gates open to the public from noon to 5 p. m. Flights over the field and surrounding communities will be made by planes of the Atlantic Division, Air Transport Command, which is based there.

In addition there will be demonstrations of jet-propelled planes, helicopters and a radio-controlled landing of a C-54 transport. A novel feature will be a running adio commentary, to be broadcast over the field's public address system, by Lt. Calvin K. Ellis as he pilots his jet-propelled P-80 Shooting Star over nearby cities to a landing at the field.

Smart Set — Henderson Bridal

By BETTY ALDEN

FOR ONCE WEDDING GUESTS could really see what was going on at the wedding of Victoria Lee Henderson and Thomas Mott Osborne 2d in the garden at Llanover, the estate of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Henderson of South Lincoln.

MR. AND MRS. THOMAS MOTT OSBORNE, 2nd

At most church weddings all one sees is the backs of the bridal party as they go down the aisle. But Vickie and her attendants walked along a garden path that led from the house across two terraces and down a couple of flights of stone steps to the lower garden where guests were assembled. This gave everyone a lovely view of the procession coming toward them in the sunshine.

The altar was at the end of the stepping stone path, under a natural arch formed by a pair of tall pines, and was flanked by large clusters of white hydrangea. The path, with its gay borders of bachelor buttons and yellow marigolds, was marked off with white satin ribbons. Everyone in the bridal party wore white which made a striking contrast to the touches of crimson on the robes of the two clergymen and the lush green trees and lawn.

AFTER THE ceremony Vickie and Tom walked back to the house to receive the best wishes of several hundred guests before a fireplace banked with peach and yellow gladioli and greens. Ruby Newman played the wedding march and later struck up the couple's favorite songs as they cut the cake.

Because the ceremony was outdoors a number of guests brought their candid cameras and the bride's uncle, George Henderson, was one of the busiest of the amateur photographers. The ice cream soda bar Mr. Henderson made for Vickie's debut was set up by the refreshment table on the lawn and almost as popular as the champagne bar.

Among the many guests were Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Moore, whose daughter, Mrs. Simons Lucas Roof, was married a couple of weeks ago and was one of Vickie's bridesmaids. Also Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bradley Carter, Mr. and Mrs. Thatcher Luquer and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Storer of Cambridge, Mrs. J. Brooks Fenno, of Chestnut Hill, in a becoming navy and white polka dot dress and white pique hat, and Mr. and Mrs. E. Sohier Welch of Louisburg sq., the latter in an emerald green redingote over a gay printed silk dress.

THE BRIDE'S MOTHER wore white orchids on her pale gray dress and a white horsehair hat with white flowers on the brim. Miss Frances Henderson, the bride's aunt, also chose a gray and white color scheme and Miss Edith Henderson, another aunt, a white background print with a halo hat of white gardenias.

Lincoln friends and neighbors among the guests included Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Frost Comstock, Mr. and Mrs. Eveleth Todd, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Warner, Prof. Joseph Snyder, Mrs Clement Sawtell, and Mrs. Constantin Pertzoff (Olga Monks) whose niece, Ellen Monks, was a bridesmaid.

Mrs. William Brace Pratt drove over from Milton and wore a handsome beige silk dress and gay flower hat. Others attending were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Steinert, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen R. Casey, Mr. and Mrs. T. Barnet Plimpton, Mrs. Philip Cabot, Mr. and Mrs. George Chamberlain Jr., Mrs. Henry Hall with daughter Edith, Mrs. Robert Montgomery and son Samuel, Mrs. Charles Higginson, and Mr. and Mrs. Donald McElwain, who found a parking place for his hat in the shrubs outside the walled garden.

Let Them Go Red And See, He Urges

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP)—Rep. O'Konski (R.) of Wisconsin, said today he believes that "perhaps the best solution for Europe is to let it go Communistic—and get its belly full of it."

"The Marshall Plan is based on saving the people in those European countries from Communism," O'Konski said in explaining his view.

"That is the very threat that some of them are holding over us and blackjacking us with. They say, in effect, that if we don't send over financial aid they will go Communistic.

"The quickest and surest way to convince those countries that Communism has nothing to offer is to let them adopt it for a while and let them see how they like it."

BARBARA BEL GEDDES AND HENRY FONDA

In RKO Radio's "The Long Night"

'The Long Night' for Keith's

The world premiere of "The Long Night," the Hakim-Litvak thriller starring Henry Fonda, Barbara Bel Geddes, Vincent Price and Ann Dvorak, is set for the Keith Memorial Theater on Wednesday.

Photographed against a background of a town of the Pennsylvania-Ohio steel area, "The Long Night" combines tender romance and keen suspense with turbulent realism.

Fonda portrays a steelworker who falls in love with a beautiful young girl, only to find that an older man has a strange and baffling influence upon her. This rival, played by Price, is somewhat reminiscent of the classic Svengali character. Miss Dvorak is cast as Price's shapely vaudeville assistant who is consistently unlucky in love.

The companion film will be "That's My Gal," featuring Lynn Roberts and Donald Barry.

FRECKLE FINALISTS AT STATE

Finalists in the Freckles Contest sponsored jointly by Loew's State and Orpheum Theaters in co-operation with the recreation department of the Boston Park Commission will appear on the State Theater stage Monday night at 6:45.

that. It was found in the Hughes aircraft files. Do you remember Roosevelt being at the Ambassador Hotel?"

Meyer: "Yes. He was on a mission for the War Department."

Ferguson: "How many days does the bill show he stayed?"

Meyer: "Three."

Ferguson: "What is the amount?"

Meyer: "Thirty-two dollars and eleven cents for three days—that's a reasonable hotel."

Ferguson: "When did you first learn that Roosevelt was coming to the coast?"

Meyer: "Hughes told me."

Ferguson: "What did he say about entertainment?"

Meyer: "Nothing. I used by discretion. That was my job."

Ferguson: "Did you turn in the costs to the company or to Hughes?"

Meyer: "To the company."

Ferguson: "But Hughes told you that Roosevelt was coming on a mission?"

Meyer: "Yes."

Meyer said it was he who introduced Col. Roosevelt to Faye Emerson, the movie starlet, whom Roosevelt later married.

Sen. Ferguson had asked Meyer how he happened to know that Faye was acquainted with the son of the President.

"Because I introduced her to him," Meyer replied. "I think she met him in the commissary of the Warner Brothers studio."

The publicist also was revealed by the committee to have charged Hughes' enterprises more than $169,000 in "expenses" over a four-year span.

Ferguson said an investigation by the government's general accounting office showed Meyer was allowed $169,661.17 in expenses from April, 1942, to December, 1946.

Questioning of Meyer on his deferment from the draft brought a protest from T. H. Slack, Hughes' counsel.

Meyer told the committee he was deferred at first because he had "four dependents—my mother, my dad, and two aunts."

"We all lived together in my apartment," he said.

Slack told Cain he thought the Justice department was "competent" to check on selective service deferments.

Sen. Ferguson advised Meyer he need not answer questions which he felt "might incriminate or degrade" him.

Slack asked that the committee obtain Meyer's entire official draft record and call the chairman of his local draft board as a witness.

"We will go fully into the matter," Ferguson promised.

Sen. Cain said Meyer had "six deferments."

He read from an affidavit presented to Meyer's draft board Oct. 31, 1943, by a Mr. Coxe, described as the Selective Service coordinator for Hughes aircraft, saying that Meyer was employed in administrative duties "in the armament division."

Cain said another affidavit on Feb. 1, 1644, described Meyer's title as "assistant to the president (Hughes) in charge of contract negotiations and public relations." Cain added:

"I have no interest in Mr. Meyer personally. I am only interested in determining whether Meyer was qualified to hold these essential jobs during the war, or whether he wasn't."

"I now ask the chairman (Ferguson) if he officially will not refer the draft status of Mr. Meyer and his six deferments to the Department of Justice for whatever action they may see if to take.

"If investigating wars after they're over means anything, it is to see to it that justice is done, however late."

Ferguson said that in view of the fact that Slack had requested Meyer's draft records brought before the committee, he felt that he should "take the matter under advisement" at this time.

Cain's statement brought a charge from Slack that the hearing "is no place to ascertain the truth."

Slack said that while he could not speak for Meyer, he was satisfied the publicity man would welcome the Department of Justice investigation. Then he went on to say:

"In reply to you, Sen. Cain, you say that you seek truth here. I believe Sen. Ferguson will admit to you that by jurists such as he is it has been recognized for a thousand years that truth is not successfully obtained except by permitting both sides to introduce all material and permitting them to be heard publicly.

"This is no place to ascertain truth."

Ferguson, obviously aroused, told Slack:

"You are not coming to this committee and charging that you can't obtain the truth. I told you you had the privilege of bringing in evidence . . ."

Slack: "But I was not given the right to cross-examine witnesses."

Ferguson: "The rules of this committee do not permit you to cross-examine. You are permitted to submit questions, and all of the questions you have submitted have been asked."

'Spiral Line' in New Fur Styles for Fall

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE, Beauty and Fashion Editor

FOLLOWING THE FASHION TREND of longer hemlines and rounded silhouettes . . . Maximilian's fabulously designed furs . . . recently runwayed at the Magnolia Casino . . . take to the "spiral line" or curved look.

Not to be outdone by the new and exciting look of fall clothes . . . furs, too, look different for winter with hemlines that curve gracefully upward . . . necklines with a curved semi-circle effect . . . necklace collars dipping into rounded yokes . . . rounded shoulders . . . side-swept closings on fitted coats . . . all giving a spiral circular effect to mink, broadtail, ermine . . . or whatever beautiful furs Maximilian used.

This outstanding fur designer's presentation was breath-taking . . . and Boston's own models, the Hart girls, looked equally breath-taking, swathed in the luxurious expensiveness of extravagant pelts. This season, fur coats won't only keep you warm!

Black Alaska seal is used for an important silhouette change when Maximilian harks back to the 1920 kimona drape coat. Full-spreading sleeves, the long side-swept closing and a completely uncluttered look, distinguish this coat.

AT BEST IN MINKS

Again the side sweep . . . but this time done in an elegant and fragile shade of honey-beige broadtail. This tremendously exciting coat stems spiral shape up from the curved hem which is cuffed with feathery brown Baum Marten, the neckline curves gracefully down, also with spiral grace, and a large Baum Marten muff completes the effect.

Maximilian's theory that shoulder lines should simply follow the wearer's own natural line is best illustrated in his mink, toujours gorgeous mink, coats. The gently-rounded look, never squared off, but a look which cherishes and hugs the wearer.

One beautiful mink is full length . . . with sleeves which manage to have a full look . . . yet are not shirred or puffed. Actually, folds of mink are gently brought in at the wrist with deep cuffs, and the two-fold necklace collar dips gracefully back.

FUR GREATCOATS

The same neckline collar . . . a completely enchanting piece of artistry . . . is used on a silver blue mink greatcoat. Greatcoats are featured in fur, too.

Another cape jacket is silver blue mink . . . first introduced by Maximilian . . . has a tucked and gathered neckline and petal effect rounding the hem.

Labrador mink makes one of the show pieces of the collection . . . in a very long cape with the fur used like a border. The same mink also makes a cape which looks like a jacket, which is made on a whirling motion and effects a sleeve where none exists.

MANY CHOICE CREATIONS

Other coups d'etat of Maximilian's collection include a full length cape of black Alaska seal with a Victorian ruff of white fox and round barrel muff . . . a white ermine lumber jacket with a drawstring midriff and huge passementerie braid and sequin buttons . . . a white mink coat with deep hood for evening . . . black Russian broadtail in a suitstole, just a long strip of shimmering fur-edged with black ball fringe . . . a poncho-stole in mink . . . a stole which can be wrapped around the shoulders like a scarf worn dropped, over the head like a poncho, making the briefest of boleros with full long sleeves.

DOUBLE ENTENTE coat of mink and green velvet (shown at left and right in center, below) . . . a designing achievement by Maximilian . . . has three-way versatility. It can be worn as a dark green velvet coat with a tulip-shaped skirt of mink . . . or with the curved cape of mink . . . fingertip length . . . for the ultra in luxury . . . or the cape may be worn separately for evening for ultra-smartness.

Peach Treats--Favorites All

By MARTHA LEE, Household Editor

PEACH-TIME IS HERE. Plenty of fresh peaches will come out of southern orchards within the next three weeks. This delicious fruit—a favorite of millions of Americans—will be just ready for the peach salad, the peaches and cream, to bake, broil or jelly, as your appetite dictates.

Along with many thousands of recipes that are dug out of the cook books or kitchens each year about this time, you may like suggestions for something different. Below you'll find some of the newest yet oldest peach recipes which we know you can't help enjoy.

Peaches are healthful, too, and you should eat plenty of them while they last.

DEEP-DISH PEACH PIE

6 peaches
½ cup sugar
¼ cup light corn syrup
4 tbsp. shortening
1½ cups sifted cake flour
1½ tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. salt
½ cup milk

Peel, slice peaches in half; mix with sugar and corn syrup. Arrange in greased baking dish. Cut shortening into mixed and sifted dry ingredients to the consistency of coarse meal. Add milk and mix until blended. Turn out on floured board; pat to fit baking dish. Place on fruit; bake in moderate oven (375 deg. F.) for 1 hour, or until lightly browned. Serve warm or cold.

LUSCIOUS PEACH SALAD

4 peaches, pared and halved
½ pint cottage cheese
2 tbsp. chopped almonds
Salad greens

Pare peaches just before serving. Cut in half and place peach half on salad greens, cut side up. Add cottage cheese and top with second peach half. Sprinkle chopped almonds over entire peach. (Chopped almonds may be mixed with cottage cheese prior to putting cheese in peach half.) Makes 4 servings.

PEACH CREAM PIE

2 cups milk
5 tbsp. flour
½ cup sugar
¼ tsp. salt
2 egg yolks, slightly beaten
1 tsp. vanilla extract
Sliced peaches
1 baked pastry shell

Scald milk in double boiler. Mix flour, sugar and salt, blend well, and stir into scalded milk. Continue stirring over hot water until mixture is thick and smooth. Cover and cook 15 minutes. Stir into slightly beaten egg yolks, return to double boiler, and cook 1 minute longer. Cool, add vanilla extract, and pour into baked pastry shell. Cover with sweetened sliced peaches and whipped cream. Makes one 9-inch pie.

Should Take Her Time

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: I am fifteen, a freshman in high school, and have been going with a senior in the same school. Unfortunately, I acted very silly and showed that I was crazy about him, so he stopped calling or even talking to me and I felt very badly.

A few days ago I met a very nice boy who also goes to my school, who is 17. He says hello to me every time he sees me, and his friends all call me by his name. Today he asked for my picture and I gave it to him and he promised me his. I like him very much and would like some advice on how to keep him and to find out if he likes me.

"TINA."

You should have learned enough from your previous mistake to tell you a good deal about the technique of getting and holding boy friends. You seem to be going so fast with this second young man, what with exchanging pictures after only a few days' acquaintance, that I am wondering if you really did learn very much from your preceding experience. Being just a little "hard-to-get" is a much better way to interest a boy than being too ready to respond.

Weymouth Girl Scouts Off for Summer Camping

Fun Ahead—It's summer vacation time ahead for these Weymouth Girl Scouts as they prepare to entrain at the North Station for camp at Lake Onway in Raymond, N. H. With them are Mrs. Viola Taylor, troop leader; Mrs. Catherine Martin, assistant leader, and Nellie Chase, counselor. Girls are from the Trinity Church troop.

Not So Dumb—While St. Louisians sweltered in 102 degree temperature, Cookie, popular member of the city's zoo, used this method to beat the heat. The chimpanzee found that an ice cream bar and a palm leaf fan brought temperature down inside and out. Mercury was 98 in the zoo.

A CREDIT TO CONGRESS

THE ARMED SERVICES UNIFICATION BILL, which achieved final approval before the adjournment of Congress, was one of the most important measures considered at the recent session, and its enactment is a great credit to the substantial majorities in Congress which supported it.

The peace of the United States will undoubtedly be more secure in consequence of the enactment of this bill.

In the event of future war, the security of the United States will have infinitely better safeguards than it has had in the past.

The effect of the bill is to integrate all of the armed establishments of the country within the framework of a single department of national defense.

None of the establishments will lose its historic identity.

Competition for advantage and prestige, and especially for appropriations in a manner that has frequently attained an apparent sufficiency in one department at the expense of a dangerous deficiency in another, should be entirely eliminated.

In short, the several establishments concerned with military operations by land and sea and air will augment and supplement each other. Fitting in to an orderly and scientific pattern, responding to an undiverted channel of planning and command, and centering their maximum striking power to the best strategic purpose.

THE NEED for such unification of the armed forces has been understood and acknowledged by responsible military, naval and aeronautical leaders in our last two great wars, and particularly in the great conflict recently concluded.

Throughout the tremendous operations of the last war, and especially in its Pacific phases, the top commanders were conscious of an inherent disadvantage in the lack of a system of unification, although in most cases they offset that disadvantage by improvising systems of integrated authority in the field—which proved they were great commanders.

But recourse to improvisation in time of war is a hazardous policy, and in the highly mechanized and incredibly swift-moving wars which impend in the future it would be a potentially disastrous policy.

Congress has been commendably alert to these facts, and has conscientiously created the permanent system of armed services unification which our national experience has shown to be essential to our national safety.

While it is to be regretted that the Congress has not been equally alert to its responsibilities in all matters of national defense, and specifically in the matter of Universal Military Training which is inseparable from an entirely adequate system of national defense, in this instance at least the vital needs of the country were wisely appraised and capably served.

MORE PROMISES

WILLIAM H. BURACKER, the Massachusetts public works commissioner, seems to be striving to make up for lost time, or, maybe, his purpose is to appease the Governor, who did not relish the recent announcement that this State is losing more than thirty million dollars of the road funds which the federal government has earmarked for Massachusetts.

In any event, the commissioner says that a federally-aided program calling for nearly 74 miles of new highway construction in Massachusetts, at a cost of $21,286,000, will be well under way by the early part of 1948.

He goes on to predict that the new thoroughfares will have many unusual features, such as artistic divisions, 8-foot-wide shoulders and no left turns.

Somehow, despite Mr. Buracker's mounting enthusiasm, we feel rather like the mythical gentleman from Missouri; we have to be shown.

Hundreds of promises and tons of blueprints have poured out of the public works department in the last decade, but only a scant few of them have developed from hopeful dreams to practical reality.

So fair, so dear, so warm upon my bosom,
And in my hands the little rosy feet,
Sleep on, my babe, my blossom, my sweet!
What is it God hath given me to cherish,
This living, moving wonder which is mine,
Mine only? Leave it with me or I perish.
Dear Lord of Love Divine.

ANY IMPROVEMENT in the rental situation in your section? The business rental situation in Manhattan seems to be easing up a little. As note by the following advertisement which recently appeared under "to rent" in the good old classified section: "Furnished office in restaurant and all the food you can eat. Tenant must be agreeable to owner and like good Italian food. Rent $50 a month."

FAST DOG: From Salinas, Cal., the home of lettuce and rodeos, comes a communication from a subscriber who says he once had a German shepherd dog who could catch jackrabbits. He demands a stogie from the man who said the only dog who could catch a jackrabbit was a greyhound.

PASSING BY: Dorothy Shea. The original "Park Ave. Hillbilly." Popularized those two quaint ditties, "Feudin', Fussin' and Fightin'," and "I'm In Love With A Married Man" . . . May Sutton Bundy. Tennis champion of the yesteryear. She was a racket wielder in her day. The best of all women tennis players was Suzanne Lenglen.

ASKING: Queries from clients. Q—So you think that great horse, Irish Lad, was owned by Herman Duryea. A—Irish Lad was first owned by John E. Madden and then sold to H. P. Whitney and Herman Duryea. So you are only half right. Please forward half a stogie. Q—Have been presented with two love birds. can you suggest names for them? My son (13 years old) suggests Romeo and Juliet. A—How about calling them Baby and Bogey? On second thought I like your son's suggestion better. Q—What you say the star-gazers say about Gemini women is most discouraging. The comment has my boy friend wondering. Look again, Eddie, see if those old boys haven't had something good to say about us Geminis. A—The stargazers do seem to be a little hard on the Gemini (May 22-June 21) girls. But they do say they are fascinating females and that while life with a Gemini woman may be exasperating it is never dull.

TRICKY OFFER: The Five O'Clock Club in Miami, Fla., boasts of offering free drinks on the house daily at five o'clock. A Long Islander who says she was at this place a couple of months ago states there is a catch in this seemingly handsome offer. It is not at five P. M. that the free drinks are served but at five A. M.!

SAYS SHE: "The flirtatious actions of married women working in offices is making bachelors cynical as to matrimony," writes a woman of Manhattan. "Many of these career girl wives seem to be in office work just so they can play around with men other than their husbands. Time and again I have had bachelors in our office point out these two-timing wives as a reason why the average fellow was better off single. It is true married men flirt with female office workers. But 90 per cent of that flirtation is harmless. Most of it is just 'kidding.' But when a married career girl flirts she really gets serious."

THAT ARGUMENT: Now the distinguished literary light, Gelett Burgess, perpetrator of the immortal "Purple Cow" poem has joined in the doughnut argument. He says the real doughnut has a hole in it. That they were originally called "o nuts" because of their shape. I believe Mr. Burgess is just exercising his quaint sense of humor. All reliable research indicates the original doughnut was without a hole. Anyway, this is the five star final item on doughnuts in this column.

STOGIE DEPARTMENT: "The boys from Vinegar Hill" who congregate at Gallegher's bar and grill in that section of Manhattan have combined to clean this department out of stogies. They are off to a good start. It was stated here that since Roger Bresnahan, who played for the Giants 40 years ago, there hasn't been a native of Ireland in the major baseball leagues. The boys at Gallegher's name Jimmy Walsh of the Athletics of 1913, born in the County Mayo, and Joe Cleary of the 1945 Washington Senators, born in the County Cork. Some night next week the atmosphere at Gallegher's is going to be clouded with stogie smoke.

". . . So, after considering your request for a raise, we have decided to grant it—by holding less of your withholding taxes."

THESE DAYS

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

(Copyright, 1947, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

I AM NOT A MUSICIAN nor even a music critic. But I like to go to concerts. Every other Sunday, during the winter, when I am in New York, I go to Carnegie Hall to listen to the Philharmonic. During the summer, when I am up in the Berkshires in Massachusetts, I go to Tanglewood three times each week to listen to the Boston Symphony during the festival.

Aaron Copland

I do not try to understand music as I do a table of statistics or the politics of Henry Wallace. There are scientists called musicologists who devote themselves to understanding music. With them, it is like mathematics; something with formulae.

I just go to listen. I like Tanglewood most of all because I can see the pine-covered hills and the sky while I listen. I even like it when it rains. Sometimes it is good to listen to music and rain. It is soothing.

This year I shall hear all nine of Beethoven's symphonies, one right after the other in order. That will be a new experience for me, although I have tried it with records. Still, records are not the same as sitting in the big shed in Tanglewood up in the green Berkshires. No records can be like that.

I KNOW THAT I SHALL stretch my legs, relax, maybe chew a cigar, and listen. Do I know why Beethoven wrote No. 1 or No. 5 or No. 9? No! And I don't care. It would be the same to me if his name were Smith or Jones. All I want to do is to listen and to be transported to the infinite.

So the musicians spoil it all for me. They play something by Aaron Copland that hits me over the head. To me it is no longer music because I cannot listen. I am pushed. I am kicked around. It has something to do with the century of the common man or the Nazi or Communists or other busy-bodies. It is a factory, a mill, a mine. It is terrific—that is, the noise is terrific.

Then I come the next day and they give me a dose of Stravinsky which sounds in places like a million GI's rubbing dungarees on tin washboards. The rubbing is fearsome. I am told that it all has to do with some kind of ancient Russian springtime ritualistic dance. If that is a Russian springtime, then those people have never walked down a lane with a pretty girl in the newness of the year. If that is the music they used to dance to, it must have been done with caterpillar tractors.

THE CRITICS SAY this is absolute music, but I am a simple fellow who likes Beethoven, Schubert and even Jerome Kern and Gershwin. But do I have to like noise, too? Do I have to go to Tanglewood to hear the Boston Symphony produce the sounds of a newspaper press room? Maybe the critics like the arithmetic of music; as for me, give me beauty of melody, rapture of expression, intensity of feeling. I leave the physics of the celestial orbs to the atomic scientists. Their music is, boom! That's really what Copland and Stravinsky sound like to me—just a lot of boom.

MAYBE I OUGHT NOT to step into the domain of the music critics. They apparently know what it is all about and like it. Or maybe, up at Tanglewood, they ought to have special sessions for critics and musicologists and such experts who can do their calculus while they watch Maestro Koussevitzky or his protege, Leonard Bernstein, belabor their minions through the cacophony called modern music. But for simple folk who just want to listen to beauty, this fare is too heady, like vodka spiked with anisette.

AND THE QUESTION ARISES: Why must everything modern be so exhibitionistic, so bombastic, so tough on the ear and the soul? Why must it all sound like a lie—like a small boy's lie? Why must even music be so unmannerly, so gross, so grotesque? Youth tells me it is the spirit of the age—two wars with a depression in between. What a spiritless age!

Hollywood

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 2—Hold on! Boris Morros and William Le Baron, the boys who made "Carnegie Hall," have another hot idea. Here it is. The two gents have bought the screen rights to a novel written by—listen carefully—Louis Bromfield, Thomas Mann and Maximilian Ilyin! Yes, I mean these three giants of letters united for a three-cornered collaboration on a story called "Woman of a Hundred Faces."

It's a dramatic story (really a lengthy short story) about a famous European model who was painted by 100 different artists —each portrait revealing her as a different woman. The three authors actually knew the woman.

As a matter of fact, Bromfield, Mann and Ilyin could play themselves in the movie.

BARBARA STANWYCK had to wait for word from Hal Wallis before she could sign a contract to play "B. F.'s Daughter," the John Marquand best seller. It was originally bought for Katharine Hepburn but with Barbara hotter now than the weather, the MGM bosses felt she was the right gal to play the part.

Barbara Stanwyck

Missy Stanwyck will have Van Heflin and Richard Hart in the leads opposite her, with Robert Leonard directing and Edwin Knoff producing.

I knew Barbara was negotiating with MGM, but I thought it was for Clark Gable's picture, "Homecoming." Seems I was wrong—it was the Marquand story that had her talking with the MGM-ers.

VERY AMUSING is the way John Lund landed the lead opposite Jean Arthur in "A Foreign Affair" for Brackett and Wilder.

That Wilder, who is a mischievous gent, wrote some highly spiced dialogue which can never get on the screen, just for the laughs. Lund got hold of it, made a test with the censorable links, and read them so hilariously, Billy signed him pronto.

Lund is getting the breaks these days. He was with Olivia De Havilland in "To Each His Own" and with Betty Hutton in the hit, "Perils of Pauline."

In "Foreign Affair" he plays an officer with our army of occupation in Germany to La Arthur's investigating Congresswoman.

THERE IS a dramatic story back of Polish veteran Roman Toporow, who has just been sent to Germany by Dore Schary to join Merle Oberon, Paul Muni and Robert Ryan in "Berlin Express."

After the fall of Poland, Roman went to Italy with the Free Polish forces. He met Ben Lyon, who learned that Roman had been on the Polish stage. Ben told him if he ever came to America to look him up. After Roman arrived in Hollywood, Ben made a test of him which I'm told was sensational. When Dore looked at it, Dore offered Roman a job.

In the meantime, the boy's visa was running out and he was faced with deportation. Just in the nick of time, Congress passed an act which permitted Roman to accept Dore's offer.

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: Yesterday in this column I told you what Irving Rapper had to say. Today I give Jack Warner's answer, because we want to be fair about all things.

Said my friend Mr. Warner: "Irving Rapper is not on suspension. He's on layoff, because we are not ready yet to put 'Christopher Blake' into production.

"Three days before Rapper started 'Voice of the Turtle' he wanted to walk off because he didn't like Eleanor Parker and Ronald Reagan. Later, he publicly apologized in an interview and acknowledged his mistake."

This ends this series.

WHEN Roscoe Karns was asked to suggest someone to play his son in "Speed to Spare" he said, "What about my own son, Todd? He's a good actor." So now when Roscoe goes before the cameras for the two bills, Pine and Thomas, his own son will play his movie son.

Well, all I can say is the two boys ought to be able to act naturally.

GRAD SEARS, who replaces Edward Raferty as president of United Artists, is an excellent choice. He knows the picture business and is a hard worker. Raferty will continue to represent United Artists as its lawyer. He has wanted to retire as president for a long time and resume his legal practice. Arthur Kelly, who steps into the former Sears' post as executive vice president, has been associated with Charlie Chaplin for years.

It's nice that Mary Pickford and Charlie Chaplin have buried the hatchet, since that seems the only way United Artists can get back on its feet again.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD Collected at Random: John Sutton picked up a tropical infection in Mexico and is very ill at the Santa Monica Hospital with a temperature of 104.

That attractive gal with singer Buddy Clark at Ciro's was Annelle Stevens, Mark's estranged wife. They were in a party of four with Dave Rose and Betty Bigelow.

Shirley Temple will become an aunt again, two weeks before Shirley's own baby is due in January. Her brother Jack's wife has a date with the stork.

Angela Lansbury and Peter Shaw are getting very serious. Plenty of English accents flying when they dined at the Beverly Tropics.

Joan Lorring is entertaining her grandmother, Mrs. Abe Bach, whom she hadn't seen in nine years. Mrs. Bach arrived earlier this week from Shanghai.

Van and Evie Johnson entertained at a dinner for eight in honor of Emilio Aldao at Chanteclair.

Joan Caulfield and Michael North, who weren't too crazy about each other when they were making "Romance in High C," at the Somerset House for dinner.

Joan Caulfield

At long last Philip Dorn's daughter arrives in this country on a freighter from Holland. He has been trying to get her here ever since the war ended.

Lucile Ball stopping off in New York was the personal guest of Waldo, designer, at the first television broadcast of California fashions.

Martha Raye and Nick Condos at Charley Foy's holding hands, believe it or not. Nice that they have ironed out all their difficulties.

It took Harry Revel less than half an hour to write "Birmingham Boogie," the song he turned over to Birmingham Hospital, but it's estimated the number will raise $50,000 for this hospital for disabled veterans.

Norma Shaw, who once wrote the "Rambling Reporter," welcomed a baby girl yesterday. She is married to Sam Weisenfeld, manager of General Service Studio.

Harry Siegel, Carmen Miranda's brother-in-law, and Gene Austin, the singer, are opening a night club in Las Vegas to be known as Gene Austin's Blue Heaven.

Edna Ryan, Leo Durocher's ex-girl friend, and Jack Leonard, Columbia actor, a tallyho twosome.

That's all today. See you Monday.

Boston After Dark

LUCILLE BALL'S treatment of the swarms of autograph-seekers who infest Shubert Alley these nights just boarders on being cavalier . . . With an ever-so polite: "Please excuse me tonight," the glamor girl from "pictures" sweeps through the crowd which parts at her approach and becomes two parcels of people with a path between . . . We were amazed to watch this crowd of autograph-seekers, which a moment ago had been a determined, yammering mob with the hint of an overtone of menace in its brief pose of brash familiarity, break in two parts as it did.

BUT TO THE LOVELY LUCILLE autograph-seeking mobs are an old, unwelcome and familiar experience . . . "The trick is to not stop at all . . . Keep walking . . . I do because they don't mean a thing," said Lucille . . . "They are the personification of these haunting, horrible voices who occasionally ingratiate themselves into the favor of switchboard operators of hotels, and at the crack of dawn (as it always seems) speak their minds in the false courage of being safe from identification, or molestation for their insults." . . . (Miss Ball can couch a thought in two-dollar words which tell a story).

DO NOT INTERPRET this anti-autograph-seekers attitude to either a superiority complex or hauteur on the part of the tall beauty with the flaming red hair . . . If anyone accused Lucille of "going Hollywood" her friends would put the speaker down as something to hoot . . . Whether the color of her hair is or isn't, Lucille herself is "natural" to a fault . . . It is this quality which disarms critics of her acting . . . Because it communicates itself to her work and is the quality in her acting which endears this young Hollywood star to live audiences . . . She gives an entirely different performance in "Dream Girl" than the ephemeral, ethereal Betty Field brought to the difficult role written (especially for Miss Field) by Miss Field's husband, Elmer Rice.

WHEN THE SUMMER season in the theater has finished for 1947, this courageous effort by a movie star who never before in her life had stepped before the footlights in any kind of role must certainly be recorded as the season's outstanding feature . . . In "Dream Girl," the girl portrayed by Miss Ball (in an utterly different interpretation than the one wrought by the role's creator, Miss Field) is on the stage for all but three minutes of the play . . . It requires no undue knowledge of the rigors of professional acting for a person to gasp at the temerity of a novice in the legimate theater who would essay a first assignment of that magnitude.

BUT LUCILLE BALL tried it, and is getting away with it to heavy crowds, and at the largest regular salary ever drawn by any actor, male or female, in the so-called "summer theater" . . . The young lady merits the applause she is getting—in a half-dozen to eight sincere curtain calls a night . . . It should be cleared up at once, though, that Lucille does not swish her way through autograph-hunting mobs merely because she, for the moment, is a reigning queen of the audible motion-picture.

LUCILLE LOVES the people and appreciates her fans . . . But the autograph racket has been "done to death," and—in the same respect that tipping irks her, autograph-hunting is "un-American" . . . "Don't get me wrong, though," said Lucille over roquefort cheese and beer in the suite of a fellow-cast member in the Touraine . . . "I don't like the tipping system for all the well-known reasons; but nevertheless I tip . . . We in this country shouldn't patronize our fellows, and that is what tipping amounts to . . . By the same token, there's a loss of human dignity, I think, when a huge number of persons virtually beg some impermanent 'celebrity' for a meaningless scrawl of the alleged celebrity's name . . . I had to get cured of this autograph-signing business when I started trouping with 'Dream Girl' . . . I would have taken a full half-hour to satisfy that crowd tonight . . . And most of them would have vanished without as much as a 'thank-you' . . . I've gone through all that.

"YOU GET WRITER'S cramp and aching fingers and when it is all over you find yourself stark alone in the middle of someplace with not a soul around you . . . When they get that signature, they mooch off . . . It's not for me."

Broadway

By Dorothy Kilgallen

NEW YORK, Aug. 2—Errol Flynn's broken foot (he did it in a swashbuckling tennis game) may require surgery. It still gives him intense pain . . . Kathleen Ryan—the girl who plays opposite James Mason in "Odd Man Out"—is lullabying her second baby . . . Friends expect the final chapter of the Tyrone Power-Lana Turner romance to be written within the next few weeks. Lana is going to Europe for a vacation. If Tyrone follows, the movie colony will take the combination seriously; if he doesn't, the affair will be written off as "just one of those things" . . . Natalie Anderson Scott, author of the best-selling "The Story of Mrs. Murphy," has had a batch of film offers. She's insisting that the company purchasing the film hire Virginia Mayo for the part of "Dolores" in the novel . . . The shortage of "angels" on Broadway is something horrendous. One highly touted forthcoming musical production, which has some solid theatrical names connected with it, is on the verge of suspending because the sponsors simply can't raise all the necessary money.

Capitol Hill Show

By Kenneth L. Dixon

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (INS)—From the crowds on Capitol Hill these days, you'd never know Congress had adjourned—and it looks as though things were just getting started.

Right now, of course, majority of the spectators who mill around the hill in mobs are magnetized by the Hughes-Kaiser plane investigation. But there are other shows coming up later which likely will attract about as many.

The Hughes probe pulled them in off the sweltering streets in droves right from the start—and as yet it hasn't had a single disappointg day from a spectator point of view.

The stories of fabulous parties spread throughout the city, and began to cause worry in certain sections. After all, the business of giving parties to prominent senators, representatives and bureau bosses is one of the oldest and most effective forms of lobbying in this capital city. And if there were to be investigations of every incident involving men who received government favors and the men who granted them, well—

In short, there's hardly a member of Congress or a major bureau or department head who hasn't broken bread or bent an elbow with lobbyists at one time or another. And quite often, those men subsequently took action which benefited their hosts.

FOR THAT REASON, a lot of the spectators at the Hughes investigation were not there merely out of idle curiosity. They were watching to see just how far the probers would go in setting precedent.

But for the big majority, who were just looking for a good show, the outburst of Howard Hughes against Sen. Brewster was even better than they had expected. Then they stuck around to see if Hughes and Brewster might be called on the stand.

That, too, would set another precedent. If Brewster, as chairman, could be called before his own committee to answer charges of one of the men being investigated, it might well have a sobering influence on future probing bodies.

For a good many government girls, utilizing their day off to attend the proceedings, the possible appearance of Hughes in person is the big attraction. After all, it isn't every day a gal gets a chance to look at a real live, handsome bachelor multi-millionaire.

Finally, the possibility that a parade of Hollywood movie starlets may pass in review before the committee certainly hasn't hurt attendance from a male point of view.

Right now, it seems likely the Hughes show at the "Big Capitol Playhouse" will be good for a long run with a packed house every day. But if it folds, there'll be another to take its place.

Coming up the last of this month, for instance, is the house un-American committee's investigation of Communism in Hollywood—and there'll be a long line outside the door when that show opens, too.

CALIFORNIA'S CONG. NIXON started the publicity build-up the other day by predicting conservatively that the investigation "will be sensational." Metro - Goldwyn - Mayer couldn't have said it better.

Although much of the attendance at that investigation will be inspired by a dead-serious interest in the proceedings, there, too, the bulk of the crowd will be those just curious to see how movie stars and congressmen mingle.

The serious interest will be occasioned locally by the forthcoming so-called "loyalty probe" of government workers. Many of them will be on hand to see just how the solons are going to go about proving or disproving one's loyalty. And no one can deny it's going to be a neat trick—if they can do it.

Still, it's the talk of "sensational" exposes and the planned presence of actors and actresses which will bring out the mob. As one government worker said with a grin:

"Why go to the Coast on a vacation, when Hollywood's coming to Congress!"

Reply to Attack On Honesty of Wonderland Dogs

By AUSTEN LAKE

NOW IT STARTS! A deluge of outraged greyhound lovers who rally to the defense of Wonderland's honesty. Some are written on wrapping paper, some on monogrammed stationery, some with lip stick, some in a Spencerian hand. But all, or most, avow the error in "Mr. Two Buck's" recent castigation of the air-flow pooches.

Here's one, Sir—I'm not a two buck bettor and I don't believe there is such a thing. If a two buck bettor wins he becomes a $5, $10 or $20 bettor. Then when $20 bettors lose they revert to $2 bettors. (Ed Note—that's why they go broke.)

"I have been to most of the greyhound tracks in the country and once owned a kennel at Revere. I follow the greyhounds the entire year by receiving programs from every track. So I feel qualified to defend Wonderland, which in its dozen years has never had a blemish, or a founded accusation that it had dishonest racing.

No Jockeys to Guide Them

"THIS LETTER IS NOT TO promote a feud. Its intent is to explain that the average reader does not know. (1) Mr. Two Bucks complained that a 'hamburger' named Hack Wagner won in 31.3 while the Great Lucky Pilot's average is only 31.4. Yet Pilot has won five races this year in average time between 31.2 and 31.3. Since July 18 when Wagner won in 31.3, 22 winners of 74 races were in 31.3 or better. It's by no means unusual time on the fastest greyhound track in the country.

"The chief thing about greyhound racing is the position the hound gets in the starting box and the class of dogs he is running against. Some run wide and need an outside spot. The reverse is true of dogs that run the rail. No one can be expected to determine this knowledge without considerable study and more than passing interest. Otherwise he should not complain about honest happenings which they cannot explain. There are no jockeys to guide the dog or set the pace. Each dog is on his own and answers his individual instinct.

2—The greyhound Jocular Jester, mentioned by your Mr. Two Bucks as having won handilly and then collapsing at the finish is not unnatural. This greyhound has an affliction not uncommon to the breed, particularly older dogs. He can run any distance but as soon as the race ends he comes up with "cramps," a physical condition like the human "charley horse." Jester is often carried from the track even when he doesn't win. Also this dog won the St. Petersburg Derby this winter. He has to be solid to do that.

3—Mr. Two Bucks complains of Amateur winning and playing a huge price as a "second rater." Yet Amateur came to Wonderland after a splendid winter record of 22 starts, 6 win, 7 seconds—impressive for a pup. He has also won, since July 29, three well-run races and paid—no. not "huge" prices but $7.80, $5.40 and $4.20. Mr. Two Bucks has not stuck to facts.

4—The greyhound miscalled "Northwestern" is probably "Southwestern" I shall assume so, since no "Northwestern" is registered at Wonderland. This dog also has an outstanding winter record, one which likes an outside position like No. 7 the night he won. In his first start, from No. 1 (at 1-1) he fell trying for the outside. His second start, from No. 4 (at 6-1) he was shuffled on the last turn and ran last. But on his third start he drew No. 7, the No. 8 dog being scratched that night, and had the outside spot, exactly to his liking and he won. So I cannot see any cause for complaint on this greyhound or his odds. Mr. Two Bucks didn't complain when the dog fell down at even money.

Object of Abuse

"THE MAN WHOSE LETTER you published probably is honestly in the dark on intelligent matters concerning dog racing, which accounts for his confusion and error as pointed out by me. I trust you will print this letter in fairness to greyhound racing and those men who raise and race the dogs. Wonderland has been the object of much unwarranted abuse, yet there has never been one proved instance of failure to protect the small and large bettor alike, whether he bet two bucks or $200. As a student of dog racing, although without any present connection with the track or as an owner, but as one who merely likes to pit his wits against the probabilities, I would testify that Wonderland's racing has been without reproach.

"Furthermore it is a matter of veterinary record that there is no known stimulant which can remain active in a dog's system after five hours in the lockup kennels under State supervision. Any inference that a dog can be stimulated between the lockout kennel and starting box is absurd, particularly as the dogs are accompanied by track and state stewards and in full view of the public at all times.

"One may watch the jinny pit up to the moment each dog leaves for his post position at race time. Try staying that close to a race horse some time. I favor honest, well founded criticism of any sport, including greyhound racing, which happens to be my hobby. But half-truth, amounting to ignorance, such as contained in Mr. Two Bucks' script, I believe should be corrected. This is it, if you care to print it."

(Ed. Note—Contents duly appraised and offered for public consumption as a fair rebuttal to Mr. Two Bucks' other side of the question. No further comment).

Doerr, Fans' Perennial Favorite, Feted Tonight

By FRED HOEY

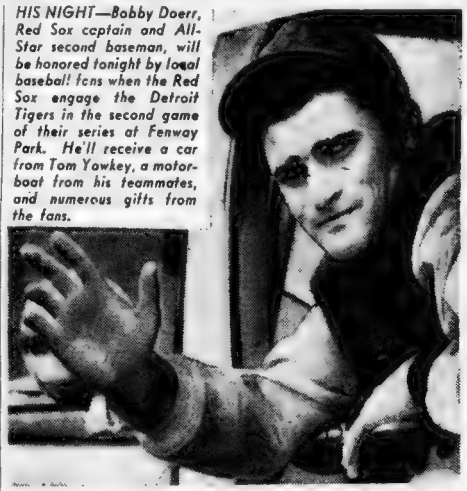
One of the most popular players the Red Sox club has boasted over the last two decades will be honored tonight at the Sox-Detroit game when Bobby Doerr, past master at fielding the second baseman's spot will be the toast of New England fans. Ceremonies start at 8, the game at 8:30.

Bobby has been a member of the Red Sox for 11 years and has been a standout at the pivot spot. His superlative plays have been so constant and regular that fans have taken them as a matter of course.

Doerr and Joe Gordon, now of Cleveland have always been rated the class of second base in the American League. New York Yankee fans naturally leaned to Joe when he was on that payroll but New England fans preferred to string along with Bobby.

So tonight New England fans will have a chance to pay tribute to this grand player who has been such an asset to the Red Sox over a span of years. Bobby in the off season conducts a mink farm in Illahee, Ore.

One of the richest gifts Bobby will receive will be a brand new Cadillac car by owner Tom Yawkey. Tom strongly admires Bobby and the gift tonight comes as no surprise.



HIS NIGHT—Bobby Doerr, Red Sox captain and All-Star second baseman, will be honored tonight by local baseball fans when the Red Sox engage the Detroit Tigers in the second game of their series at Fenway Park. He'll receive a car from Tom Yawkey, a motorboat from his teammates, and numerous gifts from the fans.

HUGHSON TO PITCH

Joe Cronin will trot out Tex Hughson (8-9) while Steve O'Neil will use Virgil Trucks (7-6).

Last night's battle was wrapped all around Freddie Hutchinson. The right-hander was not only grand on the mound but he delivered a triple in the sixth inning with the bases loaded to give the Tigers their three runs. Hutch holds a high rating as a hitting pitcher. He proved it last night when he socked the first pitch to him to the far corner of right field for the telling blow that sent the Red Sox down to their fourth straight defeat.

As a pitcher Freddie was all the doctor ordered. He was clearly entitled to a shutout. A couple of bad throws by Lake gave the Sox their unearned run in the fifth.

Hutch's change of pace was grand. He pulled the string on his pitches and really had the Sox batters looking a bit bad at the plate. Johnny Beazley the Braves' pitcher who saw the game from the press box declared it was the smartest-pitched American League game he has observed this season.

With one down in the sixth Hoot Evers, Eddie Mayo and Bob Swift all singled to fill the bases. Then came Hutchinson's triple which scored all three runners.

Ted Williams was hit by a pitched ball and walked, but on his other trips he popped out.

SOX SHAKEUP

Joe Cronin shook up his lineup with a view to getting more power around the top. Sam Mele was leadoff man followed by Johnny Pesky and Dom DiMaggio . . . It was good to see Bill Summers umpiring behind the plate. Bill is in a class by himself and has the respect of the players, which is something, in these rhubarb days . . . Dave Ferriss was fortunate to get out of that first inning jam with the bases loaded and only one out. Pat Mullin fanned on a foul third strike caught by Roy Partee and Hoot Evers hoisted to Sam Dente in short right . . . Freddie Hutchinson not only had his speed early in the game but he worked extremely fast which is all right by the customers.

The crowd filled the park early. It was an ideal night for a game, just cool enough . . . Fans will be talking a long time over the play Sam Dente made on George Kell in the third. It was a wickedly hit grounder down the third base line. Sam dashed over, made the stop and it spun him around . . . His usual perfect throw to first nailed Kell. Dente certainly owns field that ball . . . A couple of Bay State umpires were operating, Bill Summers of Upton and Ed Hurley of Holyoke.

MAYO HITS AGAIN

When Eddie Mayo, former Braves infielder doubled to left in the fourth it was the 19th game in which Eddie has hit safely . . . When Ted Williams walked in the fourth it was No. 114 for the Tall Man . . . Eddie Lake had a tough session in the fifth when he made a couple of bad throws which enabled the Sox to score a run on Roy Partee's single.

Roy Partee made a sparkling play on Pat Mullin in the seventh when he caught the latter's pop bunt and then pegged to Johnny Pesky at second to double up Wakefield . . . Roy then followed with another standout play when George Kell tried to steal home with the count two balls and no strikes on Mayo at the bat. Roy put the ball on Kell. That was that.

The attendance was 32,286, which sent the Sox home attendance for nine night games to 307,140. For the entire season the Red Sox have drawn 917,447 customers at Fenway Park.

Red coats seemed to be the prevailing color for the lassies at last night's game in the cool breezes.

Levinson 3 Up on Doherty After 18 Holes of NE Final

NAYATT, R. I., Aug. 2 (AP)—Johnny Levinson of Kennebunk, Me., twice holder of the New England amateur golf championship, was 3 up on Ernie Doherty of Woburn, Mass., after the first 18 holes of the 36-hole final round of the New England tournament at the Rhode Island Country Club today.

Levinson went out in even par 36 and was two shots over for the inward trek. Doherty needed 38 going out and was three down at the turn.

A hooked tee shot cost Doherty the first hole and he went two down by three-putting the second but he birdied the fourth, where Levinson was trapped and needed a five.

The 1936 and 1937 champion, however, resumed his par parade and won the sixth, where Doherty missed the green with his approach, and stretched his margin to three at the seventh, where again Doherty overshot.

The Woburn 25-year-old won the 10th in par, Levinson 3 putting but Levinson regained his 3 up margin with a conceded three at the 12th where Doherty first caught a trap and then overshot the green.

Levinson fired a beautiful iron over a series of traps at the 16th and dropped a 25-footer for a birdie

Tough Week For Streaks

Brooklyn's 13-game win spree is the latest casualty of baseball's "heartbreak week" which also saw the end of Cincinnati Ewell Blackwell's 16-game string and Pittsburgh Frank Gustine's 21-game hitting streak.

Add to these disappointments the collapse of the Red Sox, who went into a four-game losing tailspin after seven straight victories, and the end on Monday of the Giants' consecutive game home run streak at 15.

Although the Cardinals pulled out of their downward plunge by thumping the Phillies last night, 6-1, it might very well be that the Red Birds' pennant hopes also died during the week in three straight defeats at the hands of the Dodgers.

Chicago played the villain in the latest "heartbreak," ending the Brooks' longest success story since 1924 with a 10-8 triumph engineered by catcher Clyde McCullough's two-run homer in the ninth inning.

The Cubs knocked out Joe Hatten in the sixth and finally tied the score in the seventh inning of a free-hitting contest. Despite two errors by shortstop Lennie Merullo in the eighth inning, the Dodgers were unable to score again and reliefer Emil Kush got home with his fifth triumph.

Both New York and St. Louis won, clipping the Dodgers' lead to nine games, with the Giants holding a one percentage point edge on the Cards for second place.

Dave Koslo was in superb form as he lefthanded the Giants to a 2-1 edge over Pittsburgh, striking out Hank Greenberg three times. In fact, Koslo, enroute to his 12th success, whiffed Ralph Kiner, Greenberg and Wally Westlake in succession in the second and ninth.

Murry Dickson and Whitey Kurowski teamed up on the Phils to assure St. Louis of that 6-1 edge. Dickson allowed only five hits and singled home the winning run in the fifth. Kurowski homered off Schoolboy Rowe in the second and, after he was dumped into the dirt by an inside pitch in the eighth, blasted Rowe's second delivery into the left field seats with Erv Dusak and Chuck Diering on base.

In the American League, after the Yankees had opened the door by bowing to Cleveland in a day game, 4-3, Detroit knocked off the Red Sox in a night game, 3-1, leaving the Yanks 12 games ahead.

Jim Hegan's triple and Eddie Bockman's outfield fly gave the Tribe the edge over New York's Joe Page, although the Yanks threatened by loading the bases in the last of the ninth. Red Embree, who pitched 2 1-3 innings of hitless ball before he was lifted for a pinch hitter, was credited with his fifth win.

One bad inning, the eighth, when St. Louis scored twice, ruined Philadelphia's Dick Fowler, who struck out eight men but bowed to the Browns' Bob Muncrief, 4-1. Vern Stephens' single to left was the payoff blow, driving home Johnny Berardino and Paul Lehner.

Washington did some streak-smashing of its own, scoring its first home win of the year over Chicago, 8-1, behind the seven-hit pitching of Early Wynn, who registered his 12th victory. Mark Christman led the Senators' 12-hit attack on Joe Haynes and Bob Gillespie with a double and two singles.

Eagle Gridders Off For Saranac Lake

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 2 (INS)—The main body of the Philadelphia Eagles pro football squad left by bus today for preseason drills at Saranac Lake, N. Y.

Coach Earle (Greasy) Neale indicated that the players will get down to serious work on Tuesday. The team meets the Chicago Bears on Sept. 13 in Philadelphia for charity.

CHAMP—Clara Lamore of Providence, R. I., the national 100-yard breast stroke titlist, heads a long list of champions in the Rangeley Lakes, Me., swimming carnival which comes to a close today. The meet is under the sponsorship of the American-Record-Sunday Advertiser "Learn to Swim" campaign.

Rangeley Sees Novel Aquatic Horse Race

By JACK CONWAY, JR.

RANGELEY LAKES, Me., Aug. 2—The North Woods counterpart of the Massachusetts Handicap was held at Rangeley Lakes yesterday. Six riders, three of them cute little mermaids, mounted on the shores of Quimby Pond, in the center of the Rangeley Lakes region. At the signal of the flashing white flag they dug bare toes into the flanks of the horses and dashed into the water.

The horses rolled back their lips and splashed furiously in the pond. The competition was blazing until the horses plowed into the deep water. Percy Ellis, owner of the Rangley Lakes Riding Academy, whispered something into the ear of Trail Blazer, a piebald gelding, and he was into the lead.

The judges boat was anchored some two furlongs off shore. The horses, feet churning, tails soggy and heads reared high, rounded the racing mark and headed back for the beach.

WATCHED FROM CANOE

We sat in a canoe off to the lee side of the racing course. This was an event that no newspaperman would ever miss. The first swimming horse-race ever held in the United States.

As the horses swam clear of the official buoy a little 12-year older named Bucko Tyler, clinging fearlessly onto the neck of his bucksin gleding Tornado, began to cut diagonally across the course.

Anne Frary, who came up from Farmington for the summer riding season, reined up her gray Tennessee walker to make room for charging Tornado.

REGULAR DERBY

The water race was every bit a Kentucky Derby, a Preakness, a Flamingo Stakes. Reynold Brackett of Rangeley was handling a paddle in our canoe and forgot the laws of gravity until we shipped water to put the pond on the fringes of the gun'les.

The splashing of the racing horses sparkled in the air. One horse, Harmony Allen, got away from Jockey Nancy Parrish and sideswiped our canoe. It certainly was not expert canoemanship that saved us. Let us call it the spirit of the Rangeley Lakes carnival.

Harmony Allen, a big Tennessee walking mare, forgot about the race and looked over the bow of our canoe. It was clearly evident that Harmony was doing her racing under protest. Jockey Nancy tried to pull her charge back into the race, but our wandering equine Harmony turned her head towards Gile Hill and began counting the pine trees.

FURIOUS FINISH

The white roan mare, Fashion Plate, moved out from the rail and began chopping whirlpools. Bob Huntoon's three-gaited jumper, Gee-Gee, which was being ridden by Red Campbell, sucked water and snarled.

The finish line of the four-furlong course was near, and the piebald was out in front by some three lengths. Percy, the stable master, sat upright and flaked words at Trail Blazer.

A grunt, a heave, a furious splash of water and the race was over. Trail Blazer, Tornado, Fashion Plate, Danny Allen, Gee-Gee and Harmony Allen.

The swimming meet, probably the finest ever held in the Rangely Lakes region, will be staged late this afternoon. The best of all the New England talent are already practicing off the floats by the Carnival grounds.

Clara Lamore, Anne Ross, Bob McGrath, and close to 40 other swimming stars are here for the events. The swimming races, conducted annually by the Boston Record American—Sunday Advertiser, are the highlights of the entire two-day Rangeley Lakes Carnival.

Solons Urge Olympics Be Held as Scheduled

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP)—Congressmen took issue today with a suggestion that the 1948 Olympics in Britain should be cancelled on the grounds that well-fed American athletes will hold an edge over those from food-scarce countries.

A survey among some of the lawmakers lingering on Capitol Hill after adjournment produced general accord on this point:

The good will of international sports competition will triumph over possible protests of "unfairness" in the event of an American swep of the Olympics.

And there was general agreement, too, that the U. S. Olympic committee should arrange for all contestants to eat at equal levels both during the games and for a pre-games training period.

The committee plans to take along a larder of meat and other food items scarce in Britain.

The Congressional views were touched off by suggestions in the British press that the games should be called off next year.

The lawmakers acknowledged that an equalized training table for a limited period would not eliminate the disadvantage of the deficiency diet forced on most of the world since the war began.

But they argued that such a gesture would demonstrate this country's allegiance to the Olympics tradition of equality, and remove possible friction.

Rep. Nixon (R.) of California put it this way:

"I feel that the games have proved themselves in the past as an effective method of producing international good wil, and should not be postponed next year—especially at a time when we are using every possible method to preserve friendship in the world.

Rep. Leo Allen (R.) of Illinois, chairman of the House rules committee, agreed.

"I think that the association of athletes at the games will do more to bring a better feeling among nations than much of the work of the diplomats," he said.

Rep. Moroney (D.) of Oklahoma said that "both sides" of the issue must be weighed—the possibility that the money for the games could be better spent elsewhere, and the value of the games in promoting friendship. He, too, leaned toward support of the latter.

Vessie, Scot Set British Jump Mark

GLASGOW, Scotland, Aug. 2 (AP)—Bill Vessie of Columbia University and Alan Naterson, 19-year-old Scottish Olympic hope, broke Britain's high jump record by half an inch today when they cleared six feet, seven and a half inches in meet at Ibrox Park.

Both jumpers failed at six feet, eight and a half inches, but Vessie was awarded first place in the event for having made six feet, seven and a half on his first attempt while Naterson cleared it on his second try.

The previous British record of six feet, seven inches was set 11 years ago by the late Cornelius Johnson, U. S. Olympic champion of 1936.

What the Stars Did

By the Associated Press

TED WILLIAMS, Red Sox—Hit by pitched ball, drew 114th walk, struck out and filed out. Made good recovery on Eddie Lake's smash in third inning, preventing Lake from advancing with accurate throw.

JOE DIMAGGIO, YANKEES—Filed to Joe Gordon in short right field; bounced out to Ken Keltner, driving in Tommy Henrich; popped to Lou Boudreau and lined to Dale Mitchell in deep left.

ENOS SLAUGHTER, Cardinals — Grounded out, hit into double play, sacrificed and walked.

WALKER COOPER, Giants—Fanned in second inning, struck out with bases loaded, lined to shortstop and beat out an infield single.

LOU BOUDREAU, Indians—Filed to Johnny Lindell, popped to George Stirnweiss, filed to Henrich, filed to DiMaggio and drew an intentional walk.

Sinkwich Reports 40 Pounds Lighter

CHESHIRE, Ct., Aug. 2 (AP)—Coach Ray Flaherty of the New York Yankee football club is pleasantly surprised with the condition of Frank (Fireball) Sinkwich, former Georgia All-American.

Sinkwich, 40 pounds lighter than he was a year ago and appearing fully recovered from a knee operation, sped through yesterday's opening drills at Cheshire Academy like a rookie bent on making the team, and drew from the usual conservative Flaherty the prediction, "Frank can be the best football player in the country this fall, and I'd say he's going to make it."

Flaherty also expressed delight over what he has seen of Buddy Young, Negro back from Illinois; Dick Barwegan, Purdue guard; Vic Schleich, Nebraska tackle, and Van Davis, Georgia end, all "freshmen."

Portland Club Entry Wins Swim Grind

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 2 (AP)—Richard Lucas of the Portland boys club today won the two and a half mile Peaks Island to Portland swim, coming in at the head of a field of 13 in one hour, five minutes and 50 seconds.

Yachts Jam Marblehead

Every type of pleasure craft recognizable in this district jam packed the Marblehead Harbor today as the greatest Race Week in yachting's 58-year history of local competition got under way—so packed, in fact, that you could almost walk across the chilly waters to an opposite shore.

Over 400 craft will be expected to battle it out for top honors for the next week—starting today with the midget Brutal Beasts taking over opening honors.

The majority of the craft had sailed from yacht clubs up and down the Mass. Coast. But, quite often, the skippers took the overland route, moving into the competition with their trim racing boats on trailers to be launched on arrival at the ancient harbor.

Standing out amid the smaller racing craft was Alan Carlisle's Ticonderoga, ocean-going speedster that had made the trip from Halifax harbor here in ample time for the start of the festivities. Like a mother hen with her brood, the Ticonderoga ruled as the first sirens signalled the line-up for the pull into the race courses.

JOHNSON FACES REDS FOR TRIBE

CROSLEY FIELD, Cincinnati, Aug. 2—Without benefit of either batting or fielding practice, the Braves and Reds started play in the rain for the third game of the current series here today.

The infield was kept covered until actually play got under way and the Braves emerged from their dressing room only a short while before the umpires came on the field.

Members of both clubs limbered up by tossing the ball around in front of their respective dugouts. Si Johnson, who was a Redleg years ago, was on the hill for visitors while Edward Erautt tossed them up for Cincinnati.

Ump Stewart Throws Out Len Merullo

CHICAGO, Aug. 2 (AP)—Shortstop Len Merullo and Coach Roy Johnson of the Chicago Cubs argued loud and long over a decision by Umpire Bill Stewart in a game against Brooklyn with the usual result—both were tossed from the contest.

In the first inning Merullo fumbled Jackie Robinson's grounder and the Dodger was called safe. Merullo protested that despite the bobble his throw beat Robinson.
